The position of the United States is that if the United Nations is to succeed in its peacekeeping role, it must deal with the realities of the world in which we live.

U.S. Favors Seats in UN For Red China, Taiwan

By Fred Farris
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—The United States announced today that it would vote to seat Communist China in the United Nations this fall.

decades of U.S. policy aimed at keeping Red China out of the world body. Mr. Rogers did not link the momentous American policy change with President Nixon's intention to visit Communist China before May 1. But the announcement all the same seemed to represent a speed-up in U.S. efforts to "normalize relations."

"After all, [Communist China represents] about one-fourth of the people on the surface of the earth," Mr. Rogers said. In Taipei, the Nationalist Chinese government issued a statement shortly after Mr. Rogers' news conference here calling for rejection of a Communist-sponsored effort to expel Taiwan and seat Red China instead.

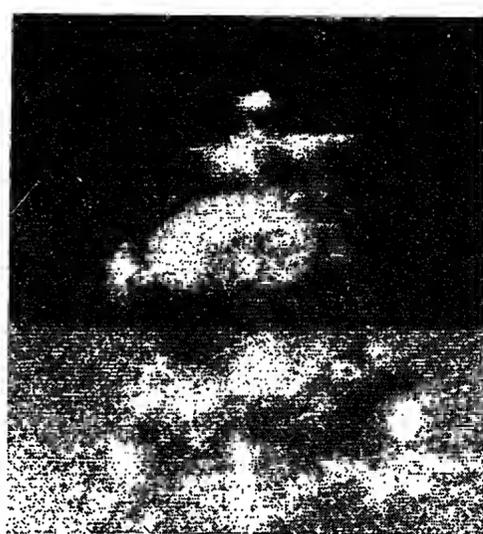

Secretary William P. Rogers

Sen. John G. Tower, R., Texas, said that the administration's decision was forced by "the fact that the votes are now available for admission [to the UN] regardless of the position of the United States." "This action constitutes no endorsement for the policies of the Peking government," the Texas Republican said.

Astronauts Leave Moon After 3-Day Exploration

face by earlier moon missions as well as this one. However, shortly before they were to send Falcon back to the moon, mission control in Houston ordered the experiment delayed one revolution because of a mysterious rise of pressure in the tunnel linking the two craft.

Houston ordered the crew to re-pressurize the tunnel, remove and inspect the two craft. Endeavour and Falcon then replaced them and try venting the oxygen from the tunnel again to see if the small leak persisted. The astronauts will continue photographing and mapping the moon until Wednesday, when they rocket out of lunar orbit and head for a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean Saturday afternoon to end their 13-day odyssey.

Soviet Berlin Access Concession Clears Way for 4-Power Accord

By Robert Kleiman
NEW YORK (NYT)—Western officials believe Soviet acknowledgment of responsibility for "unimpeded" civilian access to West Berlin, a major Western objective during a quarter-century of East-West conflict there, has sharply improved prospects for the new Big-Four accord on the city.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—The American who bought London Bridge three years ago and reconstructed it in the Arizona Desert now admits he thought he was getting the more picturesque Tower Bridge.

Mr. McCulloch told Newsweek magazine he and his partner paid $1,000,000 for the bridge and its reconstruction at their planned community, Lake Havasu City, Ariz. The bridge is to be dedicated there in October and London's Lord Mayor is to preside at the ceremony.

It Finally Confirms 'Irregulars'

By John W. Finney
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (NYT)—The Central Intelligence Agency, through a Senate subcommittee staff report, acknowledged today that it is maintaining a 30,000-man "irregular" force now fighting throughout most of Laos.

A declassified version of their report, once classified top secret, was made public today after being cleared by the CIA as well as the State and Defense Departments.

Head of Volunteer Service Attacks Saigon Over Ouster

By Peter Osnos

SAIGON, Aug. 2 (WP)—The director of International Volunteer Services in South Vietnam charged today that the group is being forced out of the country by the Saigon government for "political reasons."

Irregularities in the upcoming elections. "This is not a matter of program," he said. "We are being kicked out for political reasons; we really see what is going on in the countryside and that is bad for the government."

Saigon Says 26 Reds Die at Staging Base

SAIGON, Aug. 2 (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops attacked a Communist staging area in Cambodia south of Phnom Penh today, field reports said. The reports said at least 26 Communists were killed in the fighting and preceding air strikes.

Hugh Manke, whose organization has been sending mostly American young people to South Vietnam since 1957, said that President Nguyen Van Thieu fears that IVS workers in the field will be able to observe any

Embassy Statement
A U.S. Embassy spokesman denied the assertion and said that as far as the mission was aware IVS was still negotiating with the South Vietnamese. "We have no indication there is anything political involved," he said.

IVS, whose $250,000 budget is covered by the U.S. Agency for International Development, received a letter in May from the South Vietnamese Agriculture Ministry saying that it would no longer sponsor IVS activities.

Sensitivity on Vietnam Noted

By Henry Raymond

WALTHAM, Mass., Aug. 2 (NYT)—The John F. Kennedy Presidential Library has opened virtually the entire official White House files—except for secret papers—spanning the years of the Kennedy administration, from Jan. 20, 1961, to Nov. 22, 1963.

The step, announced yesterday by John F. Stewart, the library's acting director, gives scholars and researchers access to some 33-million pages of hitherto unavailable documents at the Federal Records Center here, the temporary home of the Kennedy archives.

The documents, technically known as the White House central subjects and names files, range from original presidential letters and drafts of momentous announcements on Cuba and Vietnam to mountains of routine correspondence.

They do not include President Kennedy's personal papers or documents "previously classified for reasons of national security," which are kept in the center's vault.

A reading of about half of the 1,010 boxes of White House files—each containing about 1,000 pages—and of the oral history transcripts, uncovered the following:

The Kennedy administration made a pervasive effort in correspondence with members of Congress and concerned citizens to minimize its growing involvement in Vietnam. A deliberately vague press communiqué on the subject written by Pierre Salinger after a cabinet-level review of the Vietnam situation in Honolulu in November, 1963, displayed a marginal note in the handwriting of McGeorge Bundy, an adviser to President Kennedy: "Pierre: Champion! Excellent"

7 Die, 7 Missing After Heavy Rain In Eastern U.S.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2 (Reuters)—Seven people died and at least another seven were missing and feared drowned today following a night of torrential rain that cut electric power and washed away roads and bridges in the eastern United States.

Three bodies were found within the city limits of Baltimore, the worst-hit town, while another four victims were taken from the nearby Gunpowder River, police said.

One man found dead within the city itself had apparently been electrocuted in his basement. He had $11,000 stuffed into his pockets. Police were investigating.

The other victims in Baltimore were a woman who fell into an open sewer and a youth who was swept away when he tried to aid a stranded motorist, police said.

In Rahway, N.J., a 15-year-old boy died when he was apparently swept into an open sewer in a flash flood.

Although the overflow crowd cheered wildly when Mr. Harrison appeared to introduce Mr. Shankar at the show's opening, it was quiet and almost reverent during the musical numbers themselves.

The police and Garden security guards, who were out in force, had no trouble and there were no arrests. "No incidents at all," said Inspector Irving Roth, who has covered many rock concerts. "They look very entranced."

When Mr. Harrison, Mr. Starr and the band took the stage, the crowd jumped to its feet with a roaring, stomping oration.

Former premier Papanicolaou, former speaker of parliament Dimitrios Papsyrovou and former ministers Ioannis Zigiadis and George Mavros told foreign newsmen that the "expression of solidarity among free people, of whatever nationality, towards each other does not constitute intervention in the internal affairs of a country."

The four men represent the two major parties, Center Union and National Radical Union, which were dissolved at the time of the military takeover. They said the reaction of Premier George Papanicolaou to the U.S. House's Foreign Affairs Committee recommendation for suspension of aid was not the answer of the Greek people.

"It was the reaction of one person who has deprived the Greek people of their freedom and political rights," said the four.

Mr. Papanicolaou had said of the recommendation: "There is not enough gold on the earth to make us sell the interests of our country."

Mr. Papanicolaou said that elections could be held in 20 days or 20 years from now but that was up to the Greek government to decide.

The premier's answer was the start of a newspaper and radio campaign against foreign intervention. The campaign included veiled threats of closure of Greek ports to the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Also at Athens, the first of two trials of political opponents of the regime opened today before a civil court.

Eight persons, two of them women, allegedly members of the Communist Organization of Athens (KOA), are accused of violation of an anti-sedition law passed in 1947 to combat Communist subversion.

The indictment said that KOA was organized by the Communist party of Greece after the military takeover of April 1967.

The eight defendants include an accountant, a printer, a builder and a doctor.

Wage Accord Ends Railway Strike in U.S.

Work-Rule Changes Part of New Contract

By Frank C. Porter

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (WP)—The nation's railroads and the United Transportation Union reached agreement this morning, ending a 17-day strike that had dealt a body blow to many sections of the country and their industries.

The settlement—coming a day after a new contract in steel and recent accords in copper, telegraph, telephone and postal service—left the West Coast dock tieup as the only major industrial dispute hobbling economic recovery.

The rail pact conceivably could be upset in the ratification process by the UTW's rank and file, expected to take three weeks. But union officials were optimistic that it would win acceptance.

Picket lines were removed and workers began returning to ten struck railroads at noon today. Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said full operations should be restored by the second full shift—sometime this morning.

It will take days and even weeks, however, to sort out all the errand cars in railroad yards and catch up with huge backlogs of freight such as the grain piled high in the streets of wheat-belt towns.

The agreement was historic in that it removed the 100-mile barrier to crew runs—a work rule that had endured more than 50 years, since it was established as part of a federally adjudicated rail settlement during World War I.

Actually, the union had grudgingly agreed to go along with the change, but only on condition its members were fully protected against or compensated for the large job losses it is ultimately expected to bring.

What in pay, the 21-month dispute was management agreement to a protection formula that satisfied the union, which represents all on-train, or "operating," personnel, except most locomotive engineers and a few firemen.

Details are still fuzzy, but the formula essentially guarantees severance pay of a year's income at or near present levels for every year of service. A brakeman with seven years' seniority who is dropped and cannot find another job, for instance, would be paid by the railroad for the next seven years. Or if he is dropped to a lesser-paid job, the carrier must make up the difference in pay. And if he is forced to take a job in another state as the result of the change, management would pay his moving costs and buy his old house.

The agreement calls for the same pay provisions contained in contracts already signed by at least five other rail unions—a 42 percent increase spread over 42 months.

The agreement was a victory for the Nixon administration, which was under great pressure to go to Congress for a legislated solution before the month-long recess beginning Friday.

It came at midmorning at the end of three successive grueling all-night bargaining sessions. "Some of those involved probably have not had their shoes off for three days," said Secretary Hodgson.

Mr. Hodgson credited Assistant Secretary W. J. Usery Jr., the administration's tireless mediator in railroad management-labor disputes, with keeping the negotiators working during the past three days and driving them toward a settlement.

According to some, of those close to the talks, agreement came after what amounted to an end run around John P. Blitz Jr., the chief management negotiator, engineered by UTW president Charles Luna.

The board of governors of the 29,000-member American Trial Lawyers Association adopted a resolution yesterday saying that a lawsuit "is a creative force to shape the world to the needs of man."

The vote of the 57-man board was described as unanimous. The association's public relations representative, Hal Kimball, termed it "extremely rare" for the association to criticize a Supreme Court Justice.

Sato Apologizes to Nation For Air Crash Killing 162

By Takashi Oka

TOKYO, Aug. 2 (NYT)—Premier Eisaku Sato named a new defense minister today, and apologized to the nation for the air collision Friday which took the lives of 162 people. It was the worst civilian air disaster in history.

In an unusual statement after an extraordinary cabinet meeting, the prime minister expressed "bitter regret for the loss of so many precious lives" in the collision and "apologized from the bottom of my heart" for the disaster.

He pledged to tackle the question of compensation to relatives of the victims.

The disaster caused a political uproar here, as well as an urgent public outcry for more effective air traffic safety measures, because a fledgling pilot of the Air Self-Defense Force was clearly to blame for it, according to police investigations.

Mr. Sato moved swiftly in order to calm the public and to reassure agitated Self-Defense Force personnel. The new defense minister is Naomichi Nishimura.

The collision occurred when an All-Nippon Airways 737 airliner cruising at its regulation altitude was struck in its rear section by an Air Self-Defense Force fighter plane. The fighter pilot, Sgt. Yoshimi Ichikawa, parachuted safely to the ground, but the airliner disintegrated and all 162 persons aboard died. The accident took place 200 miles north of Tokyo.

Sgt. Ichikawa and his training officer, Capt. Tamotaka Kuma, were arrested. They were charged with "negligence in the performance of official duties leading to death of people." Their testimony showed the sergeant to be to blame.

The Self-Defense Force is not popular in Japan, where the constitution renounces the right to make war. It is at best tolerated as a necessary evil, and its budget, although rising, is only one percent of the gross national product.

For the past two decades, leaders of the Self-Defense Force have labored to create a more popular image, but these efforts have been negated by the flood of unfavorable publicity after the Friday disaster.

Sgt. Ichikawa, according to police, did not show the attitude of regret or repentance expected of him. Defense Minister Naomichi Maehara, in apologizing to relatives of the victims, was photographed standing upright and wearing shoes, when, by custom, he should have been barefoot and kneeling. He resigned yesterday.

10 More Basques Get Prison Terms Up to 15 Years

BURGOS, Spain, Aug. 2 (UPI)—A court-martial yesterday sentenced 10 Basques to prison terms ranging from six months to 15 years for crimes of attempted treason and possession of arms, legal sources said.

Five men got 15 years, one woman, a year and the remaining four women six months.

All were alleged members of the Basque separatist movement ETA (Euzkadi Ta Askatasuna—Basque Homeland and Liberty). They were said by the prosecution to have carried out their activities in the Basque province of Guipuzcoa, bordering the southwest corner of France, from 1956 on.

The trial was the third court-martial held in Burgos in the past week. A total of 18 Basque separatists have been sentenced to jail terms ranging from 26 years six months.

CIA Acknowledges It Has A 30,000-Man Force in Laos

The State Department has argued that the Thai volunteers came under the command of the Royal Lao Army.

Out of the report came the first detailed description of the rapidly rising cost of the American military involvement in a way in which, the report observed, "the Royal Lao government continues to be almost totally dependent on the United States, perhaps more dependent on us than any other government in the world."

In fiscal year 1970 that ended on July 1, a "partial total" of U.S. expenditures in Laos came to $384.2 million, of which $162.2 million was military aid and $222 million was spent by the CIA exclusive of the amount spent on the Thai "volunteers."

The CIA figure was the first time that the intelligence agency has permitted publication of its

6 Sicilian Men Arrested in New Anti-Mafia Drive

PALERMO, Sicily, Aug. 2 (UPI)—The biggest anti-Mafia crackdown in Sicily in years continued today with the arrest of six men and the filing of 1,006 charges against 81 persons.

More than 300 national police carried out surprise raids in various parts of western Sicily, police said, in an operation which netted guns, explosives and stolen vehicles.

The sweep was the latest in a series of roundups aimed at crushing the Mafia. The campaign so far has included the banishment of nearly 40 reputed gangsters to two small islands and the arrest of more than 30 other suspected mafiosi. None of the six men arrested today was identified.

Police said they went to more than 250 homes and turned up 67 shotguns, 35 pistols, 515 pounds of ammunition and 439 pounds of explosives.

ART IN GENEVA Afro-American Artists: A Misnomer for a Show

By David Shirey

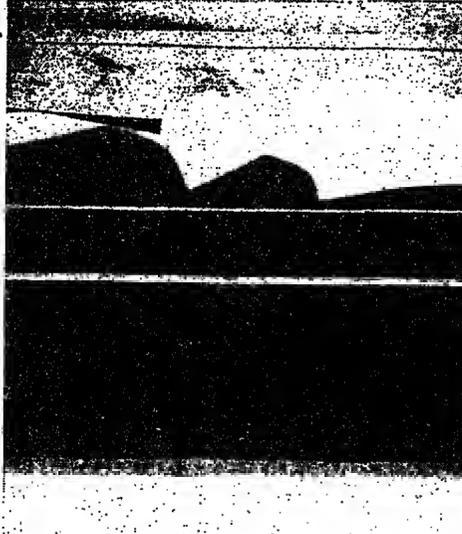

GENEVA (NYT)—Many observers in the art world almost automatically expected some controversy over the exhibition of black artists at the Whitney Museum in New York last spring. As it turned out, they were right. Several artists who were dissatisfied with the museum's policy in selecting the show withdrew their entries and set up an exhibition of their own, a kind of black Salon des Independants. Few expected, however, any stir whatsoever over the current exhibition of some 75 paintings, sculptures and lithographs by "Eight Afro-American Artists" at the Rath Museum in Geneva—even though it represents the first large exhibition of contemporary black artists to be shown at a European museum of some importance.

In the plastic arts, and never has. In looking at the 19th-century works of Crosse, Bannister and Duncanson and later of Tanner, it is impossible to deny any black. Henri Ghent, the director of the Community Gallery of the Brooklyn Museum and a champion of black art, who organized this exhibition, went out of his way to avoid an ethnically black and political art. In one of the introductions in the exhibition catalogue, he does, in fact, point out that his selection was based on quality considerations and not on political and ethnic considerations. Which is why it is difficult to understand Mr. Ghent's designation of the exhibition as "Afro-American." Visitors are justified in claiming that the title is misleading and misrepresentative.

Art Scene

For this exhibition does, indeed, look like any other exhibition of American art of recent years. The eight artists—Romare Bearden, Frederick John Beasley, Marvin Harden, Wilbur Haynie, Sue Irons, Alvin Smith, Bob Thompson and Ruth Tustall—have all been manifestly acculturated to the contemporary art scene. From California, Texas and New York City, they work in contemporary media and contemporary modes of expression as diverse as soft sculpture, hard-edge painting, lyrical abstraction and conceptual art.

It does not matter that there is no unifying theme to the show, except that the eight artists happen to be black. It would have been better, though, to exhibit more artists and fewer works by each artist. The collective work of each artist is similar and erases no development or nuance of thought.

'Dog Days,' by Alvin Smith, on view at Rath Museum.

Several of the artists executed all of the pieces within the last year.

In the final analysis, the exhibition must be judged on its quality, the guiding criterion of Mr. Ghent. And the quality is very uneven. Romare Bearden, the subject of a recent retrospective exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art, is outstanding and much better than the rest. It is a curious phenomenon that, out of all the artists in the show, only his work is strongly attached to the black experience in America—its ghettos, slums and cotton fields. Of the others, the only artists worthy of attention are Bob Thompson and Alvin Smith. Mr. Thompson, who died in 1966 at the age of 29, manifested a strong affection for Matisse and Gauguin in color and technique, but was beginning to make a very personal, almost primitive statement.

Had this exhibition been broader in its concept, scope and representation, as well as better in quality, it might have been an exhibition of a certain importance. Had it been larger, it also might have been more of the same. Nonetheless, we could have gotten a better idea of what a great representation of the 22 million blacks in America are doing in the plastic arts. A bigger exhibition of greater importance could have become an encouragement for more black artists, for more quality in black art and for more such exhibitions.

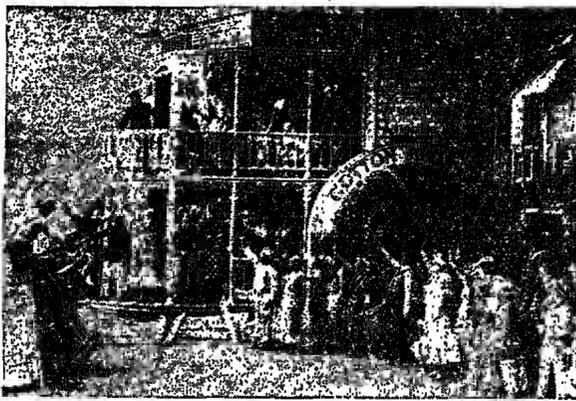

Music in London: 'Show Boat' Still Kern's Show

By Henry Pleasants

LONDON, Aug. 2 (REX)—They are saying about the new production of "Show Boat" at the Adelphi that it's the only show in town where the audience not only hums the songs as it leaves the theater, but also hums them, in happy anticipation, as it goes in.

It's a phenomenon worth noting. For although this is a splendid production, imaginatively and tastefully staged and costumed, and strongly cast, the evening belongs to a man who died in 1945, who wrote those songs. Time and again, at Friday night's performance, when "Oh! Man River," "Only Make Believe," "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "Bill," "You Are Love" and "Why Do I Love You?" stopped the show, one sensed that the applause was as much for the songs themselves as for their performance.

Certainly it is the songs, rather than "Show Boat's" unique place in the history of the American musical theater, that makes a revival now, almost 45 years after the first Ziegfeld production in New York in 1927, and the first, and last, London production in 1928, seem a likely investment of some $300,000. "Show Boat" would not warrant such an adventure simply because it forms the bridge between European operetta and what has become known as the American musical. Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots" occupies a similar position between Italian opera seria and the music drama of Verdi and Wagner. But his music has not lived. Kern's music for "Show Boat" has and does. He wrote many other fine scores, and many other memorable songs but in no other work was his genius so concentrated. Nor does any other score, as Benny Green, the sensitive and sensible editor of this Wendy Toye production, has pointed out, cover so wide a range of Kern's creative production.

The Songs

Most of the songs were, to be sure, written specifically for "Show Boat," and were notable, in the manner in which they were made an integral part of the dramatic continuity. But "How'd You Like to Spoon With Me" was Kern's first hit, dating from 1905. "Bill" indelibly associated with Helen Morgan, the first Julie, was written for Vivienne Segal and a show called "Oh Lady, Lady" in 1918, and "Nobody Else But Me" was written for the "Show Boat" Broadway revival of 1947. It was Kern's last song.

He had Magnolia in mind when he wrote it, but here it has been given, wisely, to Cleo Laine, the Julie. This remarkable singer, herself a mixture of West Indian and English, is a natural for the role of the mulatto whose marriage to a white man establishes the situation from which the plot grows. Her singing of it, and of "Bill" and "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" are the musical highlights of the evening. Lorna Dallas, an American, is the Magnolia; André John, son of the former Metropolitan Canadian tenor Raul Jobin, is the Ravenal; Thomas Carey, also an American, is the Joe, and Derek Royle is the Captain Andy. They do not, for one who recalls the original production, efface memories of Norma Terris, Howard Marsh, Jules Beldose (not Paul Robeson) and Charles Winninger. But they evoke them, and do them honor.

They would do them greater honor, and honor Kern, too, if they would drag the tempos less and eschew excessive riffs. And Carey, the best area of whose fine baritone is not at the bottom, would make more of "Oh! Man River" if it could be pitched higher for him, as it is in the final reprise. A stunning contribution by the Puerto Rican Miguel Godreau as the featured dancer is beyond cavil.

There is no reason to doubt, and every reason to hope, that the good ship Cotton Blossom will be moored in the Strand for many months to come.

Patrons are also whistling the tunes as they enter not a West End theater, but Royal Festival Hall, on the South Bank, where the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company is offering a season of Gilbert and Sullivan. "The Mikado," now playing, will be followed by "Princess Ida" Aug. 5-7; "The Gondoliers," Aug. 9-14; and "The Yeomen of the Guard," Aug. 16-21, with matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays. There is also a Gilbert and Sullivan exhibition, open to patrons only, admission free.

'Etruscan' Art Not Etruscan

LONDON, Aug. 2 (NYT)—The dating technique by which Oxford archaeologists have established Anatolian Neolithic pottery forgeries has been employed to similar effect on supposed Etruscan tomb paintings.

At least 24 terracotta panels sold to museums and private collectors as Etruscan tomb paintings are fakes, according to Dr. Stuart Fleming, who headed the investigations at the University Research Laboratory for Archaeology and the History of Art. He said that the 26 panels had cost their owners a total of about $340,000.

Dr. Fleming said that the Italian forgeries were believed to be the work of a well-organized workshop probably in the Cerveteri region. This was one of the centers of Etruscan civilization in pre-Roman times, in which genuine tomb paintings have been found. The 25 "Etruscan" works tested are from European museums, mostly in Switzerland.

Dr. Fleming said the forgers had been operating for at least ten years and that some of their work could be in leading American art museums.

"Up to now the authenticity of these works has been taken for granted," he said. "They should be scientifically tested because they are in the same group as the ones we have shown to be forgeries."

He alleged that many private owners of panels that had been revealed as forgeries had wanted the laboratory to suppress the result of the findings.

The method of testing developed by the archaeology laboratory is called thermo-luminescence dating.

ITT Antitrust Suits Halted; It Agrees to Divest Firms

By Morton Mintz

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (WP).—The Justice Department has reached an agreement in principle with the giant International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. that will terminate antitrust suits against ITT's acquisitions of three large companies but will assist in stemming the trend toward undue concentration by merger.

Within two years ITT must divest the Centen Corp. and the Fire Protection Division of the Grinnell Corp. Assistant Attorney General Richard W. McLaren said over the weekend.

The agreement defines a "leading firm" as one with annual sales of more than $25 million and having a share of at least 15 percent in any market where total sales are above the $100 million mark.

Mr. McLaren, head of the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division, listed two other prohibitions on ITT, which undertook a merger program in the 1960s that made it into the nation's largest conglomerate, with more than 400 separate boards of directors in dozens of countries.

U.S. Steel Ups Prices After Wage Increase

Mr. Abel said, "We never call a contract inflationary." That was less than 24 hours before U.S. Steel announced its price hikes.

The basic wage in the steel industry, not including incentives and overtime, has been $3.45 an hour.

Under the new accord signed last night, steelworkers will get an immediate basic pay raise of 50 cents an hour followed by 12 1/2 cents an hour in each of the last two years of the contract.

Under the cost-of-living formula, they will get a penny an hour for each 0.4 percentage-point rise in the government's Consumer Price Index in the second and third years.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP-DJ).—New U.S. factory orders fell 0.3 percent in June to a seasonally adjusted $57.2 billion, the Commerce Department reported today.

The report shows durable goods orders declined 0.8 percent in June. Orders of non-durable goods were unchanged from a month before.

Labor Accords Boost Prices on Big Board

By Vartan G. Vartan

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (NYT).—Peaceful developments on two key labor fronts—the steel industry and the railroads—lifted stock prices briskly today in a reversal of last week's near-rout in the market.

The Dow Jones industrial average swept up 6.49 to 864.92. Battered by an array of adverse economic news, the Dow plummeted 29.35 last week to register the sharpest one-week decline since late June of 1970 when a bear market gripped Wall Street.

These twin developments, combined with the market's "oversold" condition, produced a rally that saw advances outnumber declines by about 2-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

United States Steel, selling ex-dividend, gained 1 1/2 to 29 1/8. On Friday, U.S. Steel traded at a 17-year low of 27 7/8, depressed partly by its unexpected dividend cut one week ago.

GM Unit Makes Eurobond Issue

PARIS, Aug. 2 (HT).—The overseas subsidiary of General Motors Corp. will raise $70 million on the Eurobond market this month, Morgan & Co. International announced today.

GM's Overseas Financial Corp. will offer $30 million in 5-year notes at an expected cost of 8 1/4 percent and $40 million in 15-year bonds at an expected 8 3/4 percent.

The combined issue, to be priced Aug. 11, is the second-largest dollar offering so far this year, trailing only the $100 million raised by Esso.

Special Costs Erase LTV Operating Net

By Clare M. Reckert

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (NYT).—Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc., a leading contractor that derives nearly all its income from majority interests in its publicly owned subsidiaries, had an operating profit in the second quarter and first half this year before extraordinary charges. Large deficits were shown, however, after extraordinary items, according to the midyear report from Dallas headquarters.

The net loss for the first six months was $23.49 million, slightly lower than the restated net loss of $25.81 million for the 1970 first half.

The extraordinary items primarily reflect provision for additional reserves of $38 million relating to final disposition of Braniff Airways.

Paul Thayer, chairman and president of the conglomerate, attributed the improved performance to the two largest subsidiaries, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Wilson & Co., which had substantially larger profits in the second quarter and first half announced previously.

A reserve of $5.5 million remains available as of June 30 to cover losses which may result from any further disposition of assets. The company noted, however, that while there may be other dispositions of assets, none will be of the scale of Okonite

Guard Board Accepts Offer of Trafalgar

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (UPI).—The board of the Cunard Steam Ship Co. accepted a takeover bid by the British-based investment company Trafalgar.

The board accepted the offer of $1.25 million ($62.4 million after $1.3 million today, statement said the Cunard board arrived at its decision after assurances from Trafalgar that its "future role in the British shipping industry," said Sir Basil Smallwood, chairman of the board, is being reviewed.

Millar Bloedel Net 10% Income Up

ORONTO, Aug. 2 (AP-DJ).—Millar Bloedel's net profit rose 10 percent in the first half of the year over the period, after which revenues increased 5.9 percent.

The company will be prohibited from acquiring any domestic firm with assets exceeding $100 million (ITT's assets last year were $6.7 billion) or unless the Justice Department or the courts approve the consent agreement—a leading firm in concentrated U.S. markets.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Investment in plant and equipment this year will be cut by $7.7 billion in government surveys. And there is no indication that the companies will have widely reassessed their plans as the economic recovery continues. Manufacturing plants are operating at only about 75 percent of capacity, less than what economists consider the most efficient rate, while few have total capacity surveys completed major expansion programs that provided for growth while all but keeping corporate treasuries and growing.

But orders have not been as high as expected, reducing return on new investment to low levels. In addition, many companies are delaying expansion because of uncertainty about import competition, U.S. tax policies, pollution regulations and the pace of the economic recovery. There are exceptions. Utilities, responding to continuing demand for more power, are raising outlays by $2.13 billion to a total of $18.52 billion this year. Even companies restraining expansion often spend large sums to maintain and modernize existing plants and to make small plant additions. And record sums are being spent to reduce pollution. Hence, business investment is not about to end.

Londoners Philip Alder and Carl Evans use a straight-forward bidding style, although one or two of their conventions were new to American opponents in a recent N.Y. tournament.

trump. South played a spade at the third trick, and West took his spade queen and led a third trump.

South then played diamonds, ruffing the fourth round, and was able to lead a heart to establish his king. But that gave him only eight tricks, and East-West scored 300 points and gained 4 international match points.

Evans's cue-bid of two diamonds as West had a specialized meaning: a strong raise to two hearts based on high cards rather than distribution.

North and South, however, did fall into temptation. North made an even more unusual cue-bid—two hearts over two diamonds.

As he had passed originally, this clearly showed length in the unbid black suits. South's optimistic decision to go to four clubs was punished by a double from West.

As East-West can make three hearts easily for a score of 140, North-South were due to gain on the board if South could make nine tricks. They would have done so against imperfect defense, but Evans judged well by leading the ace and another

IVAN DERSKOVICH SHUKHOV, prisoner 5-84, is laying cinder blocks. He's in a rush. It's the end of the day, and it's more than 20 degrees below zero.

This is the essence of Solzhenitsyn. In this brief passage from his first novel, "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," he shows a prisoner seeking his freedom by reclaiming his humanity through work, discovering for a moment in the midst of all the brutal alienations of a Stalinist labor camp what Marx had called "unalienated labor."

Evans's cue-bid of two diamonds as West had a specialized meaning: a strong raise to two hearts based on high cards rather than distribution. Both players were discouraged by their losers in the opposing diamond suit, and East was not tempted to go to game.

of a second. Newhouse made it a one-two U.S. sweep. Gretz Klopfer of Larkspur, Calif., and Tom Dooley of San Francisco finished one-two in the men's 20-kilometer walk.

Chappe Hits 25 Pedro Chappo, another 6-7 forward, scored 25 points, repeatedly outmaneuvered Chones and Dwight Jones, a 6-10 center from Houston, and resembled Spencer Haywood with his aggressiveness.

After having avoided a collision at the start that sent two finalists sprawling to the red dirt, the 31-year-old runner from Cedar Grove, N.J., clocked 11.1 seconds for the 1,600-meter run and wound up the metric mile in 10 minutes 42.1 seconds, the equivalent of a 3.58 m.p.h.

U.S. men continued to fare better than their female counterparts, who have undergone a long season since the Pan-Am trials on May 1.

Canada's Brenda Eisler grabbed her country's third gold medal of the day, crossing Willye White's women's long-jump record with a leap of 31-1 1/4. Miss White, from Chicago, who had done 20-2, the previous record, in 1963, failed to qualify for the final.

The Americans moved within a point on several occasions in the last few minutes but missed crucial foul opportunities and committed two costly turnovers, one when Wilmore stepped back-court following an inbound pass.

Slow Boat to China

WASHINGTON—One of the greatest penalties the American people will have to pay for any detente with Red China will be sitting through hours of television film and reading hundreds of articles by American correspondents who have been lucky enough to get a Chinese visa.

Buchwald

These are some of the exciting things we can expect to learn about China in the next year—over and over again: The Chinese people have enough to eat and seem to be well-clothed though there is no variety in their choice of clothes. The children smile a lot and looked very happy in their schools.

There are many parks in China where families go to picnic. There are no rickshaw boys in Shanghai. Chinese people like to go to movies. The cultural revolution was responsible for many changes in the country.

Hotels and restaurants in Peking are surprisingly cheap. You can't take photographs of military installations. While the Chinese like Americans personally, they fear the imperialism of the United States.

The Great Wall of China is breathtaking and goes on for miles. The factories are primitive but are producing goods. The complexion of Chinese girls is healthy, particularly those who work in the fields.

China is a land of contradictions. The telephone system doesn't work very well. You don't see many cars on the roads. The Chinese do a lot of exercise in the morning. There are no prostitutes in Peking.

This gives you just one idea of what the American television viewer and newspaper reader will have to put up with as each new correspondent makes his report on the inscrutable and mysterious People's Republic.
